

Eating Healthy, Fast

A Hoover plan for identifying and choosing quick, healthy options — before hunger does the choosing.

You don't fail from knowledge. You fail at 12:40, hungry.

The information was never the problem. The decision moment is: rushed, hungry, whatever is closest wins.

Fix the decision moment, not your willpower.

Three filters. Thirty seconds. Every menu.

25–40g
PER MEAL

Protein first

If you can't name the protein, it isn't a meal.

One script per format — say it before you're hungry.

FORMAT 01

Bowl bar

- Grain or greens base
- Double the protein
- Load the vegetables
- Salsa or light dressing

Skip: cheese, sour cream, chips, tortilla

FORMAT 02

Salad

- Grilled protein, never fried
- Vinaigrette on the side
- Add beans or avocado
- Unsweet tea or water

Skip: creamy dressing, croutons, candied toppings

FORMAT 03

Grill plate

- Grilled chicken or fish
- Two non-starchy sides
- Sauce on the side
- Water first

Skip: fries, bread, creamy sides

FORMAT 04

Meal-prep pickup

- Pre-portioned and labeled
- Grab 3–5 at once
- Confirm 25g+ protein
- Store at eye level

Skip: deciding again later this week

Guardrails stop portion creep.

R1 Order the regular, not the large.

R2 Sauce and dressing always on the side.

R3 Water first — before the food arrives.

R4 Eat the protein before the carbs.

R5 One off-plan meal is fine. The plan is the pattern, not a single meal.

Five things that look healthy and aren't.

🚩 Salads built on fried chicken and creamy dressing
Often heavier than the sandwich you avoided

🚩 Smoothies treated as a meal
Liquid, low protein, gone in four minutes

🚩 Sweet tea and lemonade
The default drink in this metro — ask for unsweet

🚩 Combo meal upgrades
A side and a cup you did not actually want

🚩 Items labeled “grilled” that arrive glazed in sugar
Read the description, not the label

Pick one bowl place. Save one exact order. Done.

The plan works because the decision is already made before hunger arrives.

FIRST STEP — TODAY

Default: CAVA bowl — greens + grains, double grilled chicken, vegetables, hummus, lemon-herb dressing on the side.
